Brewed from the Heart, Rooted in Home

Dee & Bean Coffee (U) is a premier Ugandan enterprise that unites a deep passion for community empowerment with the storied heritage of the African highlands. We are more than a coffee brand: we are a visionary movement that bridges the gap between smallholder resilience and global appreciation. By combining transparency with agricultural innovation, we ensure that every cup reflects the authenticity of its origin and the dignity of its growers.

The Origin Story: From a Single Seedling to a Global Calling

Our journey began in the mist-wrapped highlands of Western Uganda, where fertile soil meets generations of farming wisdom. Our founder, Doreen "Dee" Ahebwa, launched this mission with a single coffee seedling she nicknamed "Bean," which she planted in her father's backyard. This humble experiment blossomed into a global calling to share the authentic soul of Ugandan coffee with the world while uplifting the hands that nurture it. This personal connection to the land remains the foundation of our identity.

Our Vision and Mission

- ▶ We operate with a commitment to people and purpose.
- ▶ Our mission is to brew meaningful connections by specifically empowering women farmers and celebrating the cultural richness of our heritage.
- ▶ We envision a world where every sip of coffee supports a sustainable livelihood and honors the environment. Through this focus, we transform a daily ritual into a catalyst for social and economic change.

Excellence from Farm to Cup

We maintain meticulous operational standards to deliver a superior coffee experience characterized by transparency and craftsmanship. We collaborate directly with a community of over fifty smallholder farmers in the highlands to eliminate unnecessary middlemen and ensure that producers receive premium prices for their labor. Our selection features bright, high-altitude Arabica beans and bold, earthy Robustas that we roast with precision in our Kisoro and Kampala facilities.

To ensure future scalability, we are developing a flagship "Center of Excellence" farm to serve as a research site for climate-smart agriculture and a processing center that meets international standards for traceability.

A Business with a Social Soul

We measure our impact by the lives we transform and the environment we restore. By reinvesting part of our profits into local education and health programs, we ensure our commercial success translates into community prosperity. Our "Women in Coffee" program provides essential microfinance, training, and "Holistic Productivity" initiatives that address critical health and hygiene needs for female harvesters. We also champion climate action through a reforestation commitment to plant 10,000 trees in our growing regions and build skills for the next generation through youth apprenticeships.

Experience the Authentic Soul of Uganda

We invite enthusiasts to connect with our diverse offerings through intimate cafe experiences or direct home delivery. Our flagship spaces in Kampala provide a warm atmosphere for signature blends, while our wholesale and subscription services deliver fresh roasts directly to retailers and homes worldwide. As we scale our vision, we are establishing a world-class presence in global gateways and continuing our work alongside partners like the UCDA and Gorilla Highlands Coffee to honor the Ugandan spirit.

Strategic Partnerships

Our success is amplified by a network of organizations that share our values of sustainability and quality.

We work alongside the UCDA, CURAD, the Gorilla Highlands Coffee collective and other coffee SMEs to maintain our ethical standards. Together, we ensure that every bean we produce reflects a positive social impact and a standard of quality that honors the Ugandan spirit.

A MESSAGE FROM THE FOUNDER

My journey with coffee did not begin in a boardroom or a laboratory: it began in the red soil of my father's backyard with a single seedling named Bean. At the time, I did not fully realize that this small plant would become the root of a movement. I simply knew that the coffee growing in our highlands possessed a soul that the world had yet to truly taste. More importantly, I saw the faces of the women who spent their lives nurturing these trees without ever seeing the true value of their labor.

I founded Dee & Bean Coffee to change that narrative. We believe that a perfect cup of coffee is not just the result of high altitudes and precise roasting: it is the result of a healthy, empowered community. When we support a woman farmer with health resources or microfinance, we are not just practicing corporate social responsibility. We are investing in the quality of our harvest and the future of our industry. Our "Soil to Soul" philosophy is our promise that every bean we export carries with it the dignity of the person who grew it and the heritage of the home it came from.

As we look toward the future, our goals are as ambitious as they are grounded. We are building a Center of Excellence to ensure that Ugandan coffee can compete on any stage, meeting the strictest global standards for traceability and sustainability. We invite you to partner with us as we scale this vision. Whether you are a morning commuter in Kampala or a specialty importer in Europe, you are part of this journey. Together, we can prove that when a business is brewed from the heart, it creates a legacy that sustains us all.
